

Dr. Jingping Wang serves as an anesthesiologist in the Department of Anesthesia, Critical Care and Pain Medicine at Massachusetts General Hospital (MGH), Harvard Medical School (HMS). Dr. Wang obtained his MD and Ph.D. in China from Jilin University and Peking Union Medical College (PUMC). After graduation, he pursued his professional training both in China and the United States. After completing his internship and anesthesia residency at SUNY Upstate Medical University in 2006, he joined the faculty at MGH/HMS where he provides clinical care, supervise trainees and conduct research on improving analgesic techniques to optimize short and long-term outcomes in OMF and Orthopedic surgery. He is currently an Associate Professor of Anaesthesia at Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Wang currently serves as the Director of Oral & Maxillofacial Surgery (OMFS) Anesthesia and Director of In Vitro Fertilization (IVF) Anesthesia in the Department of Anesthesia, Critical Care and Pain Medicine at MGH.

He is currently the member of Communication and Website Committee of the Association of University Anesthesiologists (AUA), the member of Abstract Review Subcommittee on Obstetric Anesthesia and Perinatology of the American Society of Anesthesiologists (ASA), the secretary of the Chinese American Society of Anesthesiology (CASA), the board member of the Society of Chinese American Physician Entrepreneurs (SCAPE).